The Aglaia.

On the 11th of September Mrs. George Bent was the cordial hostess at the first meeting of the Aglaia for the present club year.

Mrs. Gideon, the new president, greeted the members in a few well chosen words, urging them to a broad and active participation in the work. Her remarks were greeted by an enthusiasm that bespoke for her the cooperation of the members in her effort to take the club through a successful year.

The regular programme was carried out in the study of the Rossetti, Mrs. Hurst's reading of "The Two Poets," and "After Death" was followed by Mrs. Kelley's excellent paper on "The Two Poets." The subject selected for the first meeting was an unfamiliar one to those present until Mrs. Kelley had discussed the life and work of this noted brother and sister and made of them familiar characters.

A selection from "The Prince's Progress" read by Mrs. N. H. Ives and a review of "The King's Tragedy" by Mrs. Gordon closed the regular programme. The afternoon was made especially rich by the presence of Mrs. Snyder, an honorary member, and Miss Beatrice Tonnison of Chicago, and their participation in the programme. Mrs. Snyder congratulated the club upon its growth and the interest manifested as well as upon the fact that in its membership it counts the honored president of the State Federation of Women's clubs. Miss Tonnison gave the ladies the pleasure of a few moments' study of some of her art productions and added an enthusiastic outline of her method of work. Miss Tonnison is one of the noted Tonnison Sisters, whose work is a favored one in all of the art windows of Ogden as in many cities of the United States. She was the guest of Mrs. Bent for several weeks. Mrs. Fletcher was also a guest of the club.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bent and her little daughter Winifred, after which the club adjourned to meet on Sept. 25 with Mrs. Metcalf at the Institute for the Deaf and Blind.
